

Story Published: Dec 24, 2010 at 1:37 PM PST

Story Updated: Dec 24, 2010 at 1:37 PM PST

LA CENTER, Wash. - The Cowlitz Indian tribe has taken a major step toward winning the right to build a new casino, according to the Columbian newspaper in Vancouver.

The Bureau of the Interior approved the tribe's acquisition of 152 acres near the Interstate 5 interchange in La Center for a reservation.

The decision allows the tribe to operate card games, slot machines, and other types of casino gaming.

- More details from our KATU News partners at The Columbian

Powered by WizardRSS | Work At Home Jobs

Source: <http://news.google.com/news/url?sa=t&fd=R&usg=AFQjCNGvF2jYbYuvSKUh4hnJv-wj31xd2w&url=http://www.katu.com/news/business/112437849.html>